Journey with Habitat for Humanity

In 2025, Jason and Angelique Dronet were selected as the homebuyers of the Habitat for Humanity St. Tammany West Women Build, energized by Chevron, home. This new chapter in their lives marks a significant milestone for the couple and their two-year-old daughter, Abigail.

A New Beginning

Jason, a hardworking individual, currently works at Pizza Hut, while Angelique serves as a patient care coordinator at Comprehensive Physical Therapy. Despite their dedication to their respective jobs, the couple faced challenges when it came to finding suitable housing for their family. They are currently living in an RV on Angelique's parents' property. While the RV provides temporary shelter, it lacks the space and safety features that a growing family like theirs needs, especially with hurricane season on the horizon.

Dreams of Homeownership

For the Dronet family, owning a Habitat for Humanity home represents more than just a place to live—it's a symbol of hope and stability. One of the biggest differences they are looking forward to is having their own space. The freedom to decorate, organize, and create a welcoming environment for their family is something they have always dreamed of. Additionally, the safety and security that comes with owning a home are invaluable, giving them peace of mind as they plan for the future.

A Place to Call Their Own

As proud parents, Jason and Angelique are thrilled about providing their daughter, Abigail, with a space where she can play, learn, and grow. Having a separate room for Abigail is a luxury they do not have in the RV, and they are excited about the opportunities it will provide for her development. One of their main goals is to save for Abigail's future, including investing in a swing set for her to enjoy in their new backyard.

Resilience and Gratitude

The Dronet family's motto, "We are resilient," speaks volumes about their strength and perseverance in the face of adversity. Despite the challenges they have encountered, they remain hopeful and determined to create a better future for themselves and their daughter. For them, home is not just a physical structure—it's a place where they can truly be themselves, feel loved, and nurtured.

Building a Brighter Future Together

Jason and Angelique's journey with Habitat for Humanity is a testament to the power of community, partnership, and perseverance. With the support of organizations like Chevron and the dedication of volunteers and donors, families like the Dronets are able to achieve their dreams of homeownership and create a brighter future for themselves and their loved ones. As they plan to settle into their new Habitat home, Jason and Angelique are filled with gratitude for the opportunity to build a better life for their family.

The Dronet family's story is a reminder of the transformative impact that affordable housing can have on individuals and families. Through Habitat for Humanity's Women Build program, families like the Dronets are empowered to break the cycle of poverty and build a better future for themselves and their children. Jason and Angelique's journey is a shining example of resilience, hope, and the power of community coming together to create lasting change.
